HOW TO VOTE.

Don't be startled at this heading. Democrats, or Republicans, or any other kind of partisans. We do not intend to advise you what ticket to support, or which candidates to vote for. That is comething on which you must each decide for yourself. It is charged that the "Mormon" Church authorities have their people tied up in bunches, and that when they pull the string the priest-ridden members jump as they are told. We need not say to our people that this is utterly false. But other folks may believe the untruth, and they can be easily undeceived if they will only look at the division that prevails among the "Mormons" on party lines, and the vigor and sometimes undue vehemence they display in their choice and their antipathies. What we wish to explain to the voters of Utah is, the manner in which to merk the ballots that are provided by law for them to cast on Tuesday next. With those who intend to vote their party ticket straight, there can be no misunderstanding. If they mean to vote the Republican ticket whole, they will merely put a cross up in the circle below the eagle, that is all. If they wish to vote the Democratic ticket in its entirety, they will simply put a cross in the circle beneath the rooster, and "let it go at that." So with any other ticket on the ballot; a cross in the circle below the party emblem will be

But there are many voters who talk of ecratching ballots. They want to vote for the head of one ticket and the Some desire to mix things considerably, and wish to select men from each great party whom they feel they can consistently support, and they do not all understand how to mark their ballots correctly. It is for their benefit that we endeavor to explain "how to vote."

the voting booth, where they can prepare in secret the ticket they wish to support. Suppose they wish to scratch but a few names on their party ticket. They can put the cross in the circle under the party emblem, draw a line through the names they wish to throw out, and mark a cross in the square by the name of each candidate on the other ticket have scratched. Where there are a number of candidates for the same of- annoyance and loss. fice, this is important to be remembered

The whole proceeding is very simple when it is once understood. But unless it is clearly explained, there are many woters who will become confused, when they look at the array of names and tickets on the big Australian ballot. If they wish to vote for the majority of names on a party ticket they should put a cross in the circle at the head, and draw a line through those they de-Bire to reject; they can vote for as many persons on another ticket for the same offices as those they have scratched, or not, just as they choose, If they wish to scratch the majority of names on a ticket, they need not put a cross up at the head, but should mark It against each name they want to vote for. However, if they do both it will not invalidate the vote.

In making changes on the tickets, Noters must be very careful not to put a cross in the circle at the head of more than one ticket; when more than one circle is marked, the vote will be re-Sected. If they wish to substitute the name of some person that does not appear on the printed ballot, for one they scratch, they may do so and it will be counted for the person whose name is thus substituted. But it will not be likely to do him any good in the count. because the majorities will certainly be for the candidates whose names are printed on the ballots.

When voting on the question of the proposed amendments to the State Con. stitution, the word "yes" or "no" must be written in the square opposite the question. This is a very important mat-

MARRIAGE AND CITZIENSHIP.

There still seems to be some misunger standing on the question of the citizen. ship of women, and their right to register and vote under the laws of the United States and of Utah. We are told hat mainly through the efforts of zenious indies, some have been induced to register and will probably be urged o vote, who are not really citizens of the United States. If that is true, a great mistake has been made, and an offence against the law has been committed. Both the persons who have been fraudulently registered, and those who have procured such registration are liable to a criminal prosecution. Every person born in the United States or who has been duly naturalted, is a citizen. This is United States law and applies to both sexes and perons of all ages. Citizenship of itself nowever, does not entitle a person to ote. The elective franchise is reguated by State laws and differs in dif-erent States. In Utah a person must not only be a citizen of the United States, but must be twenty-one years of age or more, and have resided, imediately preceding the election, one year in the State, four months in the ounty and sixty days in the precinct, Women as well as men may vote on these conditions if they have been duly egistered.

New observe, no person can vote who s not a citizen. A woman who was born in the United States is a citizen thereof. Whether she is married or single, does not signify as to that. A woman who has been duly naturalized in a competent court, is also a citizen, whether married or single. A woman born out of the United States whose arents were naturalized before she ecame twenty-one years of age, is a litizen without taking out naturaliza ion papers. An alien woman who is narried to - citizen and who might erself become naturalized in court, is a citizen without going through the fermality of a court naturalization.

So far all is clear. Now there is ome confusion of mind as to the political status of women who have entered into plural marriage. It should be distinctly understood that such a marriage conveys no political right or status. When such marriages were permitted by the Church, they were not considered to have the sanction of secular law. The relationship thus formed is not recognized by law now. A woman who was born out of the United States, and who has no other claim to citizenship than plural marriage to a citizen, is not a citizen of the United States and has no legal right to register and vote at any election under the laws of this State.

There are circumstances attending the family relations entered into years ago, which may appear to be exceptions to the rule we have here laid down, but this is certain: If an alien woman has not been legally married to a citizen, or has not been naturalized according to law, she is not a citizen under the law and there is no mistake on that point. The remedy in such cases is to take out naturalization papers as provided by statute.

Our sole purpose in giving this exother candidates on another ticket. planation is to save people, who are nore zealous than wise, from trouble that will certainly arise if unlawful registration is followed by unlawful voting. And every vote is unlawful and criminal, if cast by a person who is not a citizen of the United States, for every person who is registered takes an oath Persons who are duly registered, on which, if wilfully false, is accounted receiving the blank ballot will retire to perjury, and is punishable by severe penalties. It is always better to be on the safe side and that is always the right eldo.

BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

The twelfth census, so far as the enumeration of the population is concerned, having been completed, the most immediate question arising out of it is what shall the congressional appropriation be? It is a matter to be determined by the Congress to be elected next Tuesday, but it will be thirteen months before it will meet. It is more than likely that the basis of representation will have been determined upon some time in advance of the meeting of the Congress that will settle the question.

The present basis of representation is 173,901. The new one will most probably be 200,000. That will be an increase of 20,099 over what it is at present. In 1893, the basis was increased 21,090 over what was fixed at in 1883. It has been increased every decade since 1793, when it was 33,000 excepting in 1803, when it remained as it had been the decade be-

This would not be so large an increase as in 1893, when it was 31; or in 1883, when it was 32. The only time in the history of the country when the representation has not increased on a new aportionment was in 1843 when it went down from 240 to 223. But in that year the basis was raised from 47,700 to 70,680. But in any event the size of the House will be so large as to be almost cumber-

SCANDINAVIAN POLITICS.

According to a German paper, The Neueste Nachrichten, quoted in the current number of The Literary Digest, a radical change of sentiment has taken place in Norway with regard to the question of union with its neighbor on the peninsula, which, for so many years, has been a topic of agitation there. The paper points out that the radical cabinet of Steen has suffered a severe defeat in the recent elections. Christiania passed out of the hands of the radical "left" party and went conservative.

This turn of affairs seems to have been brought about by the aid of Bjorn. stjerne Bjornson and his ultra-radical followers, to whom the methods of the "left" of the Sverdrup school are too slow. They attacked the Steen ministry, charging it with having plunged the country in debt, and to have made itself a laughing-stock, by its promises which were never kept. They advised the people to vote for conservative candidates rather than for the supporters of the Steen cabinet, and the advice seems to have been followed.

To one not intimately familiar with the questions at issue between the two parties, the reaction seems rather strange. The fact is that Mr. Bjornson and his friends are laboring for the establishment of a republican form of government, and they may possibly believe that the restoration of the conservative party to power may better serve that purpose, by widening the gulf between the government and the liberal masses of the people. In this however, they may be mistaken. It is no secret that the radical agitators in both Scandinavian kingdoms are suspected of laboring in the interests of Russia, but the recent occurrences in Finland have had the effect of making the Scandinavians suspicious of any schemes that may weaken their power for defense. This phase of the situation has recently been brought to public notice in Free Russia, a paper published in London, in which the following appeared: "There is no d bt that Russian influences have be and are still at work a split between the occupying the Scantwo small nati object of dinavian these endeavor dent to every enied that the leaders of the ade in Russian appeals of de Norwegian rai papers for Rus ratic sympathy s of the Northe union be weglan radical den, have been, highest degree to say the foolish, O of the politic st one another, t justify an apdinavian coan real or imagin sides, is watchin the world, ity to seize part, if not the whole,

The question of establishing an independent government in Cuba appears to be one not easy of solution. The constitutional convention to meet shortly in Havana may have work to do for several months before the instrument It is to formulate will be acceptable both to Cubans and to this country.

A noteworthy feature of the First National bank defalcation in New York is that the teller, Alvord. lived as on the income of a multi-millionaire right in the face and eyes of the bank officers, his neighbors, and the public generally. He was a familiar figure at the race tracks, and even ran horses of his own—or the bank's. He entertained lavishly and lived sumptuously in the open day, and this on a salary of $3,500. A well-and this on a salary of $3,500. A well-and this on a salary of $3,500 and the race tracks in New York is credited with the statement that he can point to a dozen bank cashiers who are heavy a bettors on the track and who have lost more than a 10-years' salary within a year. That dispute cannot be if its members have anything of the spirit that animated the framers of the United States Constitution, and if they settled yet, but possibly the fact that the United States bank examiner came are willing to take advice from the peoround a month earlier than usual to make his autumn examination had something to do with the discovery of this colossal thieving.
